Welcome to the Succeed 2020 Showcase!

Succeed 2020's overarching goal was bold and ambitious: successful transition from school to college and careers for all North Dakota (ND) students.

ND's eight regional education associations (REAs) had lead responsibility for implementing this initiative, working in collaboration with a wide range of partners and receiving intensive technical support from FHI 360 and others.

Today, the REAs share their successes, accomplishments, and lessons learned with you. As you listen and learn, you will find Succeed 2020 has affected North Dakotans in many ways. From students who learned about the knowledge, skills, and experiences required to enter colleges and careers to teachers who gained new skills and school administrators who collaborated to support and empower their teachers, almost every aspect of a school building was reached. Across ND, hundreds of businesses offered work-based learning opportunities to students and contributed to preparation of the next generation of workers. On a broader scale, REAs worked with schools, community-based organizations, higher education institutions, state agencies, and other essential stakeholders to find solutions to education and workforce development challenges.

During the Succeed 2020 Showcase, we invite you to listen closely to the presenters and make note of questions to ask REA representatives during the gallery walk that follows.

Letters from Governor Dalrymple and First Lady Dalrymple

In early November 2011, John Hess and I announced that the Hess Corporation would donate $25 million to fund Succeed 2020. The statewide education and workforce project aimed to improve North Dakota's education and workforce development systems and increase students' achievement in middle grades and high school. It also sought to improve access to and success in postsecondary education, and preparation for 21st century careers. This investment in building North Dakota's workforce of the future was part of Hess' commitment to make a positive impact in the communities where Hess does business.

Sincerely,

Governor Jack Dalrymple

State of North Dakota

As Succeed 2020 comes to an end, the results of Hess' investment are evident across the state. While First Lady of North Dakota and currently, I serve on the Succeed 2020 steering committee and experience firsthand the impact of teachers participating in professional development opportunities that result in increasing student engagement and achievement in the classroom. I have also seen the regional educational associations (REAs) creating strong partnerships among education, business, community leaders, and parents, as well as becoming an integral part in improving education for all North Dakota students.

Sincerely,

Former First Lady Betsy Dalrymple

State of North Dakota

Steering Committee – Past and Present

Throughout Succeed 2020, a dedicated group of individuals provided guidance and support to the initiative and championed its important work. We would like to thank the members of the Succeed 2020 steering committee for their service and dedication.

North Dakota Regional Education Association

Collaboration and Innovation to Improve Education

The ND Regional Education Association (NDREA) provides support to strengthen the state's eight REAs, which together serve 97 percent of the state's public schools and more than 100,000 public school students. NDREA believes that collaboration, a systemic approach, solution-oriented strategies, and a focus on continuous improvement will improve the quality of education across North Dakota.

NDREA members (REA directors and representatives from other organizations interested in advancing the NDREA mission) use a systematic approach to effectively share methods and practices that research has found to produce the best performance and results. Members support each other to ensure such practices are adapted to the context of each REA.

During the Succeed 2020 Showcase, you can learn more about individual REAs and the ways in which each implemented Succeed 2020. The following pages provide background information on each REA as well as space to write notes and questions.
